

VARADA SAMBHUS

PhD, Pursuing (since 2012) at Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi
M.Phil, (2012) Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi
M.A., Political Studies, (2010) Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi
B.A., Political Science, (2008) Savitribai Phule Pune University, Pune

Areas of specialisation:

Religion and Politics, Political Philosophy, Political Theory, Political Processes, Indian Politics, Modern Indian Political Thought, Public Policy and Governance in India

Courses taught:

Political Theory and Political Concepts, Political Ideologies and Obligations, International Politics

Contact details

Email: varada@mnlumumbai.edu.in

Profile:

Ms. Varada Sambhus is an Assistant Professor (Political Science) at Maharashtra National Law University Mumbai. She teaches political science to B.A. LL.B (Hons) students. She is also designated as Advisor to the office of Students' Welfare for academic year 2015-16. Ms. Varada is a doctoral candidate at Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU). She has completed M.Phil in Political Studies from JNU and the title of her dissertation was 'The Debate Over Maharashtra Dharma: An Analysis of the Views of M. G. Ranade, R. Bhagwat and V. K. Rajwade'.

She has cleared National Eligibility Test (NET) in Political Science in year 2010 and also been awarded Junior Research Fellowship from 2010 to 2012, and Senior Research Fellowship from 2012-15 by University Grants Commission for pursuing research.